EUROPEAN LAUNCH OF NEW NSAID CIMALGEX[®]

Lure, June 14, 2011 – Vetoquinol announces the European launch of CIMALGEX[®], a new treatment for pain and inflammation in dogs.

Vetoquinol is the European pioneer in non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs. Cimalgex[®] further reinforces the Group's strategic contribution to pain and inflammation management. Optimal efficacy, statistically proven tolerability and ease of use support the indication of Cimalgex[®] in the treatment of pain and inflammation associated with arthritis and surgery in dogs. Cimalgex[®] has been developed for the enhanced well-being of the dog hence increasing the satisfaction and ease of mind of veterinarians and owners.

Cimalgex is a new generation treatment whose active molecule is cimicoxib, discovered by Palau Pharma, a biopharmaceutical company focused on the discovery and development of new medicines for the treatment of inflammatory and autoimmune diseases (www.palaupharma.com)

Cimicoxib acts in four main ways, as an anti-pyretic, anti-inflammatory, analgesic and decreases oedema. This is the molecule's first use for medicinal therapeutic purposes.

"This is the first EU market authorization granted to Vetoquinol under a centralized procedure reserved for innovative medicaments. As a result we were granted market authorization in the 27 countries of the European Union, as a challenge successfully taken up by our teams working in R&D, production, project management and marketing." declared Vetoquinol CEO Matthieu Frechin. "This launch fits perfectly with our focused strategy and meets a real need in the veterinary market for this target species."
